BRUSSELS ECONOMIC FORUM CELEBRATES 20TH ANNIVERSARY DISCUSSING EU RECOVERY PLAN

1ST DIGITAL LIVE FORUM

Paris, Washington DC, 10.09.2020, 14:03 Time

USPA NEWS - When the Brussels Economic Forum was launched 20 years ago, its ambition was to increase the transparency of the European Commission's economic policy deliberations and to expose its ideas to greater external scrutiny. From its earliest days the forum attracted the brightest economic minds in the private sector and academia, as well as the engagement of the most senior Commissioners, including President Romano Prodi, who delivered the first opening address.

As the European economy passed major milestones including the launch of the euro, EU enlargement, the sovereign debt crisis, economic recovery, and the welcoming of new Member States to the euro area, the Brussels Economic Forum continued to evolve and only gained in importance. Today, the Brussels Economic Forum is about more than simply exposing the Commission's ideas to external scrutiny; it is a lively forum for genuine debate about new ideas with a wide variety of prominent and innovative thinkers. The world is struck by the coronavirus pandemic and ensuing economic crisis. The EU responds with a number of coordinated stimulus initiatives in line with its European Green Deal including a € 750bn recovery package

The world is struck by the coronavirus pandemic and ensuing economic crisis. The EU responds with a number of coordinated stimulus initiatives in line with its European Green Deal including a € 750bn recovery package (NextGeneration EU) and targeted support for job subsidies. Due to precautionary health measures, the Brussels Economic Forum is held online for the first time. The United Kingdom leaves the European Union.
