Knowledge Acquisition and the path to Financial and Spiritual Enlightenment

USPA NEWS - When you think of "education" I'm willing to bet that 99.9% of you out there immediately picture a classroom or lecture hall, and perhaps a teacher delivering some sort of formal syllabus. It's exactly these confines and stereotypical images of education and knowledge acquisition that everyone should be actively challenging if the path to spiritual and financial enlightenment is your goal.

When it comes to education, you need to take responsibility for educating yourself and I'm not just talking about traditional academic education; I'm talking about a holistic approach to educating all of you; mind, body and soul. One of the best ways to do this is to be naturally inquisitive about your surroundings and challenge yourself to learn more about yourself by interacting with new people in new situations according to Garth Vickers philosophy.

A positive and inquisitive mindset can have a wonderful effect on your state of mind and your financial situation; if you're out there, learning and trying new things you are much more likely to have that "light bulb moment" and discover what your real passions in life and business are (and often the two come together hand in hand!). When you find what your passion is you're well on the road to finding that elusive mix of spiritual and financial enlightenment and stability.

To make a true success of this however, you're going to have to think very differently; your mindset needs to change and you're going to need to start thinking like a top CEO. This takes time and effort, and the help of a knowledgeable coach. You need to keep developing your creative mind and you need to be able to focus, focus, focus; procrastination is the death of enlightenment!

When you start to master these steps you are well on the way to truly achieving your very own Wealthy State of Mind. Remember, everyone has a dream but very few of us have the courage in our convictions to push ourselves sufficiently to achieve that dream; you have to make sure that you are one of the exceptions; that you push yourself to be in that top percentile, that exceptional 1% who push, push and push some more until you achieve your dream.
